NO STOP-OVER. ✓

By Hal E. Roach.

"Snub" Pollard and his wife prepared for a day's outing at the beach, reach the Railroad station just in time to miss the train. They would have caught the train had they started earlier or if there hadn't been so many people in line waiting to purchase tickets. The many laughable situations that ensue are caused by Snub's efforts to get transportation. Their further attempts to get luncheon or a hasty bite in between trains, and also the successful efforts of a couple of tin-horned gamblers which induces the lean bank-roll of Snub's to leave his pants pocket, furnish much cause for merriment. Snub eventually gets his ticket and his train, but not before you have laughed many a little pain in and out of your sides.
